

Tibra Awards Agreement

By agreeing to be nominated, you understand, acknowledge and agree that:

(a) The Tibra Foundation (“Tibra”) has the right to publish, display and reproduce any material entered in support of your nomination. This may include biographical sketches, personal statements, writings, pictures, reproduced clips, and/or third party testimonials. Tibra reserves the right to change the style, format or publishing medium of such items.

(b) Except for the biographical information and sketches published as part of the Tibra' own website and literature, Tibra does not share any correspondences made with a nominee/recipient or any other information about her with any third parties. In particular, phone numbers, addresses and email addresses of nominees and recipients are not published nor shared with other parties.

(c) The content of the Tibra site has no expiry date and may be archived in the future or presented in a different format that would allow Tibra to pursue its stated goals and activities. The same rule applies to certificates and other documents awarded by Tibra.

(d) The abovementioned items become the property of Tibra. The nominee, once agreed to be included in consideration, may not ask for the deletion or modification of such items, except where it is deemed appropriate by Tibra to correct misrepresented data or typographical errors.

(e) Tibra does not assume any responsibility for any incomplete, inaccurate or otherwise misrepresented facts in the nomination forms or supporting material. The individual making the nomination and the nominee shoulder such responsibility. The discovery of such misrepresentation may result in the disqualification of a nominee and revoking an awarded certificate.

(f) Tibra does not assume responsibility for any negative feedback, commentary or otherwise stressful publicity a nominee may receive due to her participation in Tibra's awards program, by winning or not winning a Tibra award.

(g) Comments entered in Tibra’s Guestbook (tibra.org) may not reflect Tibra's views and are the complete responsibility of those who make them. Tibra reserves the right, however, to remove any entry that it deems inappropriate.

(h) The Tibra foundation is founded within the State of Ohio and hence it is governed by all applicable state and federal laws.

(i) If you are a minor, your parents or legal guardians must understand, acknowledge and agree to the terms outlined above.
